

Jerome Rossetti

Jerome Rossetti oversees the day to day operations of new construction projects for DeLany Rossetti Construction. Jerome graduated from the University of Georgia in 1985 and spent eighteen years working at Ravin Homes, a family business, which constructed between sixty to eighty homes a year in and around Peachtree City, GA. Ravin Homes also was involved in some large residential developments. Jerome has experience in residential as well as the commercial construction industry but more recently Jerome's primary focus has been on the custom residential market in the Atlanta area.

Jerome and his wife Helen have three children and live in the Buckhead area. In his spare time Jerome coaches little league football and is an avid tennis player. With over twenty years experience in residential construction, Jerome knows what it takes to turn out a successful project.

About DeLany Rossetti Construction

DeLany Rossetti Construction was founded by three long time friends and native Atlantans, Joe DeLany, Jerome Rossetti, and Jim DeLany. Combining their individual talents for marketing, project management, and customer service they offer over sixty years of successful construction experience. DeLany Rossetti Construction specializes in high-end residential construction primarily in the In-Town area and has also contracted projects in the North Carolina mountains. Our successful resume includes projects from all types of residential and light commercial building; this includes new residential construction, complete tear down and rebuilds, full scale historic renovations and light commercial construction and renovation.

The builder-client relationship is the most valuable aspect of the job. Clear, concise communication is vital to any project's success and DeLany Rossetti Construction provides this communication second to none. Beginning with the initial meeting to well after construction ends, DeLany Rossetti Construction is committed to the client's satisfaction. Our clientele is based on attraction rather than promotion and our reputation speaks for itself

For more information about DeLany Rossetti Construction visit:
<http://drconstruction.net>

